

HAVE YOUR OWN FUTURISTIC RACE

An event full of surprises where your team/s will not leave the room, but through the eyes of an outside runner (supplied by us) will have to help them navigate around a city, region or state! After getting a rough idea of their location a mobile phone call is made to the runner on the ground. From that moment on the clock literally starts ticking and it is all about getting your person to the end first.

- Analyse reference materials
- Watch DVDs on Portable DVD players
- Listen to Podcasts to get vital information
- Use your Runner to describe their surroundings and look for clues

The Runner will only go where you tell them to go so this activity tests a lot of different skills including leadership, communication, problem solving and of course teamwork!

One of the most exciting parts of this event is that we have our Runners in one state whilst your team/guests have their function in another, ensuring a truly unique experience!