

HAVE YOUR OWN INTERACTIVE QUIZ

Want a quiz but had enough of rounds of questions and questions and more questions?

With exciting rounds ranging from mental agility to origami, observation, sign language or even duck shooting this fun team building activity will have people talking for weeks.

Everyone splits into teams and a number of different rounds take place to find the interactive quest champion. It is loosely based on a quiz style with rounds taking place but with a variety of challenges it is very different to what is normally expected with questions and answers. It is as interactive as it is fun and every challenge earns points which eventually lead to a winner who will be rewarded with a prize or trophy.

The beauty of the event too is that it can be tailored to fit any brief and time available so have rounds that cater especially to the company or individual concerned.
